1. Introduction:

BPI Global Asset Management was established on March 31, 1997 as an investment management firm providing global and international investment products to Pensions, Endowments, Foundations and Mutual Funds in the US and Canada. The primary portfolio managers have been working together since April 1992. BPI Financial Corporation through its subsidiary owns 50% (economic and voting) of BPI Global Asset Management. Senior Management at BPI Global Asset Management controls 50% of the voting power through the term of its partnership agreement with BPI Financial Corporation. BPI Global Asset Management is completely autonomous and independent in its day to day investment operations.

2. Affiliations/Ownership:

Originally, BPI Global Asset Management (BPI) was owned 51% by BPI Financial Corporation (BPC) and 49% by BPI management. BPI Financial Corporation was a Canadian mutual fund company listed in the Toronto Stock Exchange. As consideration for its 51% ownership interest in the partnership, BFC guaranteed BPI a minimum of $500 million in assets under management for a period of 5 years. In May of 1999, BPI management and BFC agreed to extend the advisory relationship (guaranteed $500 million in AUM) from a five-year to a fifteen-year term. As part of the transaction, BFC purchased an additional 15% interest in BPI. This transaction did not alter the makeup of the board or the voting rights in the partnership. In August of 1999, BFC merged with another publicly traded Canadian mutual fund company, C.I. fund management Inc.

Primary Structure: Centralized (homogenous portfolios)

BPI represents a different approach to international investing. The international department consists of a handful of talented portfolio managers and analysts. The team is well equipped with some of the most advanced information systems and street research available. These resources are used to institute a consistent investment philosophy that deviates from the mainstream. BPI provides an alternative to average international equity exposure. The portfolio manager has the flexibility to consistently apply a buy/sell discipline in a constantly changing environment. BPI believes opportunity for international equity exposure with specific fundamental characteristics. Dan Jaworski is the lead portfolio manager on this product and he is responsible for each decision made as part of the investment process. Pablo Salas acts as a backup portfolio manager (international) and also provides research in developing markets at Dan's discretion.

Investment approach:1. Bottom-up

BPI's investment approach is value oriented, bottom-up discipline focusing on quality, financially productive companies that are undervalued within their global industry group.

BPI's discipline seeks to identify securities that have a sustainable competitive advantage in their relative industry, regardless of the location of their corporate headquarters. Geographic boundaries are crossed and relative comparisons are drawn along industry benchmarks, not regional fluctuations. The philosophy avoids an intense focus on predicting the economic and market conditions of various regions. Instead, the firm focuses on securities with attractive return on equity, shareholder oriented managers, and strong capital structure characteristics. Following the quality screen, bottom-up analysis determines the relative value of securities to their peers. Quantitative comparisons identify leading companies within different industries that have the potential for appreciation of capital value. Securities that meet the quality and valuation qualifications are then analyzed to ensure the ability to sustain the corporation's competitive advantage. Portfolio managers employ fundamental analysis to confirm the company's story and verify their potential to achieve earnings expectations. Portfolio managers visit directly with management at corporations in which they invest. The results from this type of stock selection process leads to a diverse, high quality portfolio of companies in a variety of industries and geographic regions.

BPI will invest in all investable markets when securities in those markets meet the investment criteria. Maximum security weight: 5%. Maximum country weight: 5% in any one developing market. Maximum aggregate developing market exposure: 20%. Maximum industry weight: 2X the MSI EAFE Index. BPI does not attempt to time the market. Any cash in the portfolio is a residual result of the buy/sell discipline. Cash should not exceed 10% and usually averages less than 4%.
